

SKI-HI Institute

We learn as much...from handicap as from advantage — and indeed perhaps more. Not out of fullness has the human soul always reached its highest, but often out of deprivation.

Pearl Buck

"Sky high" is a destination of hope and fulfillment for infants and young children with special needs and their families. Limitless are the heights of human potential that early intervention and early childhood programming can foster in the home and other childcare environments. Setting our sights high, the sky's the limit for the SKI-HI Institute's endeavors to reach a brighter tomorrow for children with differing abilities.

For nearly 40 years, we have been dedicated to designing programs and providing training and materials for professionals who serve families of children with sensory impairments and other special needs, ages birth to 5 and into the school years. Each year, the need for these programs continues to grow. Today, the SKI-HI Institute is working to secure long-term existence as we continue to achieve many important goals. To this end, we are developing partnerships with foundations, businesses, and individuals committed to strengthening families by helping children with special needs become contributing members of society.

We invite you to join us, and the families we serve, to reach sky high with the SKI-HI Institute. With your generous support, we can help our children achieve great expectations. If you have questions about giving, please call Elizabeth Dennison, (435) 797-5593, or Fran Payne, (435) 797-5591.
